Topic: Modern Medicine.

Subjunctive Mood

The subjunctive (also known as conjunctive in some languages) is a grammatical mood, a feature of the utterance that indicates the speaker's attitude toward it. Subjunctive forms of verbs are typically used to express various states of unreality such as: wish, emotion, possibility, judgment, opinion, obligation, or action that has not yet occurred; the precise situations in which they are used vary from language to language. The subjunctive is one of the irrealis moods, which refer to what is not necessarily real. It is often contrasted with the indicative, a realis mood which is used principally to indicate that something is a statement of fact.

How to form the subjunctive mood

Rule	Example
Change am, are, and is to be	It is necessary that all students be present at the assembly.
Change has to have	The attorney demanded her client have the same opportunity to defend himself as any other accused person would.
Change was to were	If I were better at math, I wouldn't need a tutor.
Remove -s from third person singular verbs	I suggested that he watch for alligators before going near that lake.
